The STAND-EASE is a transfer bar which works in most sedans and solves a variety of transfer problems. It can serve as a standing aid for persons who can walk, but have trouble rising to a standing position. It works equally well for users with very limited use of the lower extremities. The STAND-EASE will assist most people that have difficulty accomplishing a transfer into the front seat due to height differences and the distance between the wheelchair and the seat. It is also economical to buy, especially compared with other access equipment that may require the purchasing a different vehicle. I have included a description of the STAND-EASE for your review.

The STAND-EASE is a simple lifting mechanism that mounts on the driver's or passenger's side of your car seat. When you wish to exit your vehicle, simply rotate facing out of the vehicle, and press the "Up" button. STAND-EASE does all the lifting to get you to an upright position.

When you get in to your car, do you tend to "fall in" rather than a slow, controlled descent? Use the STAND-EASE to get into your vehicle as well! Simply sit on the bar while in the "up" position, then press the down button, and you will be comfortably lowered to the seat level.

WHAT COULD BE EASIER?

The STAND-EASE fits most cars with little to no modification, and is available through a network of over 900 dealers throughout the world.
